DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Inoue et al. (USPN 5984165).

Inoue teaches a mechanical joint comprising a bump on a die as shown in figure 1 and solder on a substrate. Although the structure of the joint is the same regardless of the type of reflow employed, it is noted that microwave energy was used. A joint formed by infrared reflow would have the same structure and properties.

3. Claims 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Casson et al. (USPN 5261593).

Casson teaches a mechanical joint comprising a bump on a die and solder paste on a substrate (figure 5A and col 9 lines 1-38). Although the structure of the joint is the same regardless of the type of reflow employed, it is noted that infrared energy was used (col 11 lines 54-67 and col 13 lines 28-40). A joint formed by vapor phase reflow would have the same structure and properties.

4. Claims 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sweitzer (USPN 5615477).

Sweitzer teaches a mechanical joint comprising a bump on a die and solder on a substrate exposed to microwave radiation (col 5 lines 7-43 and col 7 line 55 – col 8 line 12). However it is noted that the structure of the joint is the same regardless of the type of reflow employed.

5. Claims 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Koopman et al. (USPN 5615477).

Koopman teaches a mechanical joint comprising a bump on a die (col 6 line 66 – col 7 line 18) and solder on a substrate (figure 5A and col 9 lines 1-38) reflowed with radiant energy. However it is noted that the structure of the joint is the same regardless of the type of reflow employed. A joint formed by convection reflow would have the same structure and properties.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bernardoni et al. (USPN 5172852, obvious microwave reflow variations, IR, convective, conductive, hot bar, etc.).
